

Rabbi Silvers'

Shabbat Message

Good Shabbes.....

A couple had two little boys who were excessively mischievous. They were always getting into trouble, so they sent them to talk to the town rabbi. When they arrived at the rabbi's home, the rabbi asked the younger child to come in first.

"Do you believe in God?" The rabbi asked the young boy.

"Yes," he responded.

"So, do you know where God is?" the rabbi continued to ask.

The young boy had a puzzled look on his face and said, "nope."

The rabbi said again, "Do you know where God is?"

The boy looked back and said, "I already told you, no."

The rabbi asked a last time in a louder voice, "Do you know where God is?"

In tears the young boy ran out of the room to his older brother. The older brother asked, "What's wrong?"

Sobbing, the young boy answered, "We're in big trouble now. God is missing, and they think we've done it."

I share this with you as a reminder that God is never really missing. No matter where we are, here in Boca at CBI or out on the ski slopes, or on a cruise, God is always there.

But, for the next couple of weeks I will be missing, as I plan to take some time off from work and relax a little bit. But don't worry, Rabbi Keller and Rabbi Cohen will still be here should any need arise.

I pray that if you are indeed taking some time over the next few weeks to relax and vacation, that you will find it enjoyable and restorative. May you all be safe in your travels and please know that you will indeed be missed!

Shabbat Shalom,
Rabbi Bob Silvers
